

Unit 9 – Reflections

During Unit 9, I started researching the development of APIs for web applications. This unit was related to our Unit 11 system development assignment in which we were asked to create an API.

In this unit, I was able to develop a RESTful API that could be used to create and delete user records using Python Flask. Even though I have never worked with Flask before, I intend to attend some courses or classes in order to become further acquainted with it and develop some web applications for my own comfort.
