

Unit 7 – Reflection

Unit 7 was probably the busiest week until now. During this week I studied the concepts of validity, generalisability and reliability for the design of my research method.

Additionally, I completed the second collaborative discussion regarding computing ethics and how complicating it can be to make a decision to be ethical.

Finally, at the end of unit 7, I had to submit my literature review, which was still not completed (Good job, Antonios!). However, I managed to complete and submit it on time.

Generally, Unit 7 was very stressful, but rewarding in terms of knowledge gains.