

Unit 11 – Reflection

Unit 11 was the busiest week of the module. As the deadline for the team project presentation was fast approaching, my team and myself had to complete all tasks on time.

The assignment consisted of the final developed product, a PowerPoint presentation for the upper management and all our documents developed during the module (meeting notes, sprint plans, risk assessment, designs, etc.)

Our strategy was to gather all our deliverables into a GitHub account which we would later use to submit the assignment. Then, we created a draft of our PowerPoint including all the main points we will present.

After the first draft of the PowerPoint was completed, I started working on our audio transcript which we would use to record our presentation.

After the transcript was completed, some members of my team and myself recorded ourselves presenting our project.

Along with this week's submission, I started getting my e-portfolio page ready for the assignment next week.

To do so, I started writing my HTML/CSS code and then I made a list of all my deliverables throughout the module.

While Unit 11 was a particularly hectic week, I feel proud of my team and I for successfully completing and submitting our project presentation on time.
